

SENATE ALS CAUCUS

How We'll Cure ALS

An estimated 1 in 15 adults alive today – 135 million people – will be diagnosed with a neurological disease. Of these, Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS), which is always terminal, is the fastest progressing. By producing a cure for this debilitating and relentless disease, we'll not only eliminate the suffering of hundreds of thousands of patients, caregivers, and families, but also help eliminate dozens of other diseases such as Parkinson's, Alzheimer's, Multiple Sclerosis, Frontotemporal Dementia and Huntington's that are scientifically linked to ALS.

The ALS Caucus is a bipartisan group of ALS' most engaged champions on Capitol Hill. Many have been personally impacted by the disease, and all have been moved by the strength and energy of the ALS community.

Impact of ALS

A diagnosis for ALS means death.

Every four minutes, someone in the world is diagnosed with ALS and someone dies from ALS.¹

ALS' growth is accelerating.

ALS diagnoses are expected to rise by 69% by 2040.²

ALS disproportionately impacts veterans.

Military veterans are twice as likely to die from ALS as the general public.³

Our Mission

The ALS Caucus will bring together Members of Congress from both sides of the aisle to share experiences, exchange ideas, and work collaboratively to find a cure for ALS. By raising awareness about the challenges faced by ALS patients and their families, thinking creatively about policy solutions to reduce the negative impacts of ALS, and investing in groundbreaking research we will find a cure. Together.
